

Abstract of the Disclosure

A light emitter is disclosed herein. An embodiment of the light emitter comprises a tube, a first aperture, 5 a second aperture, a lens, a base mechanism, and a light path. The tube has a first end and a second end. The first aperture is located proximate the tube first end and the second aperture is located proximate the tube second end. The lens is located within the tube. The 10 base mechanism is attached to the tube first end and has a cavity formed therein. The light path extends between the cavity and the second aperture and passes through the first aperture and through the lens.